When traveling with a longboard, it is wise to have a way to bind it down and stow it.

Skateboard backpacks work great for street and park boards but, these are usually too small to be effective longboard bags.

Recently though, a few manufacturers have begun to cater to this niche in their market.

Longboards technically are a kind of skateboard, but what sets them apart is, as you might expect, their length. Typical skateboards (or "shortboards") are usually between 30 and 33 inches.

Longboards range from 33 inches all the way up to 60 inches, with most midsize longboards at or near the 40 to 42-inch mark.
