How We Remember And Why

At the most basic level, we remember because the connections between our brains' neurons change; each experience primes the brain for the next experience, so that the physical stuff we're made of reflects our history like mountains reflect geologic eras.

How We Remember, and Why We Forget - Brain Connection

A memory is formed by biochemical changes that occur at the synapses of our brain cells. We know that the human brain contains somewhere in the vicinity of 10 15 synapses which creates almost limitless possibilities for connections. Rest assured that there has never been a case of someone running out of storage space!
