The story of Don the Beachcomber is true tiki history! I will not bore you with all the details, you can Google it, but basically Donn Beach (Born Ernest Raymond Beaumont Gantt) is the father of the tiki bar. He opened the first tiki themed bar in Hollywood in the 1930's and later opened what we now know as the Don the Beachcomber restaurants.

The food was fine. The salad selection is great and all of it was fresh. The clam chowder soup was delicious. The Thai steak hangers were an awesome choice for an appetizer and I would recommend trying those very much -- probably the highlight of our dishes. I had the albacore tuna melt as a main entree and wasn't impressed by that.

The crab stake is the best shareable appetizer if you just want a drink at the beach and a little food. The mixed drinks are a little too syrupy and sweet for me. But the sparkling Italian Rose was fantastic and more than made up for the cocktail. Brandon gets extra points for great service!

Mediterranean Food in Pompano Beach - Yelp

My friend and I arrived around 6:30 and it was dead. We got a great seat right in the window and were given good service. The food was ok - nothing special but tasty nonetheless. However, the Beachcomber appetizer reminded us of sloppy joes...it was this mishmash of indian-spiced veggies and two SMALL biscuits. Stay away from that one.
