Proceedings of the Temperance

Convention, Held in Boston ...

In 1846, the World Temperance Convention was held in Covent Garden Theatre, London. Committed to the reduction of the sale and use of alcohol, men and religious denominations came from around the globe to participate in the meeting. Temperance was a cause many reformists held dear, and it was particularly important to the followers of Christianity.

Proceedings of the Temperance Society of Columbia, S.C ...

It was tasked with collecting literature and informing writers, authorities and the public about the temperance cause in order to battle disinformation and myths and to strengthen the overall mission of the temperance movement. 2 Together with a permanent organizational committee, the ITB would go on arranging international temperance or anti-alcohol conferences, which had already been held in various countries since 1885. It is these conferences that this article will examine.
