Environmental Cooperation In Southeast Asia

One of the most challenging environmental threats to the ten countries of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) has been the haze, the sickening and deadly cloud of smoky pollution caused by widespread burning of land and forests in Indonesia. This book examines both the threat and response to it by analysing environmental cooperation in Southeast Asia from an international regime perspective.

ASEAN regionalism and the politics of the environment The Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) emerged out of the regional contentions and security concerns among ASEAN leaders. These tensions are partly a legacy of colonization and de-colonization that had left the new nations with territorial disputes and struggles for international recognition, security and sovereignty.

Southeast Asia: Patterns of Security Cooperation

The Asia Foundation's recently released report ASEAN as the Architect for Regional Development Cooperation argues that countries in the region have the interest and capacity to more directly shape regional development in Southeast Asia, but they currently lack the mechanism to do it. ASEAN has traditionally provided the architecture for collective engagement with major powers outside the region on political and security issues.
