Most of us who teach this art or discipline seem to have a universal ideal that is a part of our lesson plans. We teach that the facilitative approach is the way to "pure" mediation. We teach the stages of mediation and the ideal for each stage. I suppose that is how all practical materials are taught.

The Art of Mediation in the Real World

The Art of Meditation explains how this inner Presence, also called "the Christ," can be realized and can operate in daily life. While many people pray for the purpose of getting something, Goldsmith explains that we should enter meditation without ulterior motive: "Any meditation that has within itself a single trace of a desire to get something from God or to acquire something through God is no longer meditation."

Meditation is a practice where an individual uses a technique – such as mindfulness, or focusing the mind on a particular object, thought, or activity – to train attention and awareness, and achieve a mentally clear and emotionally calm and stable state.: 228–29: 180: 415: 107 Scholars have found meditation elusive to define, as practices vary both between traditions and within them.

Meditation - Wikipedia

Mediation is a new language. Its development relies on the process itself: each case and its dynamics, circumstances and expectations, and the needs and interests of the parties.

Therefore, a standardized agreement form for all mediations is not as effective and, in fact, is contrary to the essence and spirit of the process.

The Art Of Writing A Mediation Agreement

The Art of Mediation, Second Edition, sets the mediation process in context, provides basic definitions, contrasts mediation with other forms of dispute resolution, describes varieties of mediation, and lays out roles and functions of the mediators. The book contains forms that illustrate sample agreements to mediate and final mediation agreements, plus a section containing hypothetical situations for performance training.

What is art-mediation? 'Mediation' is in fact an ancient form of conflict resolution, which consists of the mediator positioning his or herself between two parties without taking sides, or passing judgement on either of them. An art-mediator thus facilitates dialogue and the exchange of knowledge by stimulating opinions through what the viewer sees and the associations they make with the work directly in front of them.
