Passive Vs Active Voice

Active voice means that a sentence has a subject that acts upon its verb. Passive voice means that a subject is a recipient of a verb's action. You may have learned that the passive voice is weak and incorrect, but it isn't that simple. When used correctly and in moderation, the passive voice is fine.

Active vs. Passive Voice: What's the Difference? | Grammarly

In English class, we are taught the difference between active and passive voice. The active voice asserts that the person or thing represented by the grammatical subject performs the action represented by the verb. The passive voice makes the subject the person or thing acted on or affected by the action represented by the verb.

Active vs. Passive Voice | Ashford Writing Center

Sometimes passive voice is awkward and other times it's vague. Also, passive voice is usually wordy, so you can tighten your writing if you replace passive sentences with active sentence. When you put sentences in passive voice, it's easy to leave out the person or thing doing the action. For example, "Amy is loved," is passive.

Active Voice Versus Passive Voice | Grammar Girl

Active Versus Passive Voice Active voice is used for most non-scientific writing. Using active voice for the majority of your sentences makes your meaning clear for readers, and keeps the sentences from becoming too complicated or wordy. Even in scientific writing, too much use of passive voice can cloud the meaning of your sentences.

Active Versus Passive Voice //

Purdue Writing Lab

The passive voice sentences turn the text weaker and make it sounds not so appealing. Comparatively, the active voice form of the sentence sounds more meaningful and appropriate. Many of the writers turn active voice sentences into passive voice ones to avoid plagiarism detection in their content.

Passive and Active Voice Detector | Identify Passive Voice

With passive voice, the subject is acted upon by the verb. It makes for a murky, roundabout sentence; you can be more straightforward with active voice. As such, there are many ways to change the passive voice to the active voice in your sentences. Over time, writing in the active voice will become second nature.
