RSSI Based Localization Scheme in Wireless Sensor Networks: A Survey. Posted on January 28, 2016 by Matlab-Projects |. Wireless Sensor Networks (WSNs) are most growing research area because of its low cost, infrastructure less, increase capabilities of nodes, real time and accurate. Localization is a major issue in the wireless sensor networks because it has a number of sensor nodes which are deployed at positions and they may not be fixed at their own position.

WSN localization is the operation of determining the position of sensor nodes; this position is estimated and not accurate. Because GPS have high cost and works outdoors only, there are many localization algorithm that tries to be more accurate in determining the position of sensor nodes (i.e. have low localization error).
