Learning to read is complex. Children don't learn one reading-related skill and then move on to the next in a step-by-step process. Instead, they must develop competency in four areas simultaneously: word identification, comprehension, fluency, and motivation. They begin to develop these competencies by listening to books read aloud.

An introduction to lipreading. I'd like to talk to you about lipreading. Lipreading can be very, very useful and can help us to make better use of what we are hearing therefore we hear more effectively. You know what I mean: "I hear better when I've got my glasses on." This is because I'm lipreading and I think that we all do this naturally.
