Ok trail through the woods. Near the Visitor Center/Park Ranger station, the trail runs between a road and a parking lot, so you'll hear traffic or silence, maybe a chipmunk or two. I've been on the trail in March and in April, both times were VERY muddy, April less than March but still so muddy that I would never want to do it again.

In Karl Miller's comments and the compendium of snippets about Margaret Thatcher, one of the most important aspects of her ministry goes unmentioned (LRB, 25 April). It was her onslaught on local councils, through capping and regulation, that left little incentive for anyone to get involved in local politics, and resulted in virtual oblivion for the 'political class' outside London.
