You should be able to go home on the same day as your cataract surgery. You may have a pad and plastic shield over your eye when you leave hospital, which can usually be removed the day after surgery. Feeling should start to return to your eye within a few hours of surgery, but it may take a few days for your vision to fully return.

Cataract surgery - Recovery - NHS

“Dry eye disease is extremely commonplace, and most of the patients who are in the age group for cataract surgery have a component of dry eye disease,” said Cynthia Matossian, MD. As such, she continued, it’s incumbent on the cataract surgeon to look for and diagnose dry eye disease when evaluating a patient for cataract surgery.

EyeWorld | Addressing dry eye prior to cataract surgery

Fortunately, cataract surgery is possible for those with dry eyes, although extra steps will usually be taken to control the dry eyes prior to surgery. Depending on which tear gland is affected (there are three different tear-producing glands, each responsible for a different part of the tear), different treatments are available.
