Your mortgage payment is the sum of several parts (principal and interest, and possibly taxes and insurance). But there are several other costs and expenditures to consider. Down payment: This is the amount of money you pay up front. This is generally 20% of the property's cost. However, there are many loans that allow for less than that. It's also important to note that the lender may make you put down more than 20% if your credit is less than perfect.

Mortgages For Dummies by Eric Tyson - Goodreads

A first mortgage ever so logically describes the very first loan secured by a particular piece of property. The second loan secured by the same property is called a second mortgage, the third loan is a third mortgage, and so on. You may also hear lenders refer to a first mortgage as the senior mortgage. Any subsequent loans are called junior mortgages. Money imitates life.

I've read a few of these books and they're all pretty easy reads. B/c it's for "dummies", everything is explained in simple terms. I will say though that the mortgage for dummies series, well the material is often repetitive so I don't think it's critical to buy a bunch of these books. But if there is one book to start off with, it's this one.
