Peasants did not act as the political police had hoped when they hoarded grain in the 1924 scissors crisis and again during the 1927 war scare, or when they failed to elect politically reliable poor peasants to rural soviets. Political police reports blamed the kulaks, and this shift justified the brutal collectivization of agriculture. In this way, police reports were an extension of the Soviet leadership's divisions over whether or not to continue NEP. Why did a peaceful alternative

State, Peasants, and Police to 1921 | SpringerLink

From 1930 onwards, the Party and police officials feared the "social disorder" caused by the upheavals of forced collectivization of peasants and the resulting famine of 1932-1933, as well as the massive and uncontrolled migration of millions of peasants into cities. The threat of war heightened Stalin's perception of marginal and politically ...

Great Purge - Wikipedia

Part One traces the evolution of Comintern policy towards the peasantry, including an introductory section on Second International peasant politics. In the initial years (1920-24), the idea of fraternisation between workers and peasants--symbolised by the hammer and sickle--characterised communist identity.
