Urinary System Nursing Study Guide

The urinary system consists of two kidneys, two ureters, a urinary bladder, and a urethra. The kidneys alone perform the functions just described and manufacture urine in the process, while the other organs of the urinary system provide temporary storage reservoirs for urine or serve as transportation channels to carry it from one body region to another.

Urinary System Anatomy and Physiology: Study Guide for Nurses

The main purpose of the urinary system is to control the body's fluid and electrolyte (ion) balance, and to eliminate waste products. The key functions of the urinary system include filtration, reabsorption and secretion, although they have a role in acid/base balance (along with the respiratory system), control of Vitamin D levels, and formation of new red blood cells by releasing erythropoietin (which causes erythropoiesis - stimulation of bone marrow to make new red blood cells).
