Reflection-on-action refers to the retrospective contemplation of practice undertaken in order to uncover the knowledge used in practical situations, by analysing and interpreting the information recalled (Fitzgerald, 1994). Therefore, it involves looking back after the event has occurred.

Comparison Between Reflection-On-Action and Reflection-In ...

Reflective practice is, in its simplest form, thinking about or reflecting on what you do. It is closely linked to the concept of learning from experience, in that you think about what you did, and what happened, and decide from that what you would do differently next time. Thinking about what has happened is part of being human.

Therapeutic, reflective, relationship-based practice is the best way for social workers to bring effective and positive change to vulnerable children and families and it is apt that the theme for World Social Work Day 2019 is 'relationships'. We are redefining what good social work looks like and the 80-20 Campaign is our opportunity to create effective change by putting relationships in practice at the heart of what we do.
