Prognostic Factors In Cancer

Most prognostic factors literature describes those factors that directly relate to the tumor itself. However, many other factors, not directly related to the tumor, also affect the outcome. To comprehensively represent these factors we propose three broad groupings of prognostic factors: 'tumor'-related prognostic factors, 'host'-related prognostic factors, and 'environment'-related prognostic factors.

Many Factors Can Affect Your Prognosis. Some of the factors that affect prognosis include: The type of cancer and where it is in your body; The stage of the cancer, which refers to the size of the cancer and if it has spread to other parts of your body; The cancer's grade, which refers to how abnormal the cancer cells look under a microscope. Grade provides clues about how quickly the cancer is likely to grow and spread.
