With the individual and family as the patients, the context of community-based nursing is family-centered care within the community. This focus requires a strong knowledge base in family theory (see Chapter 10), principles of communication (see Chapter 24), group dynamics, and cultural diversity (see Chapter 9). You learn to partner with your patients and families so ultimately the patient and family assume responsibility for their health care decisions.

Community-Based Nursing Practice | Nurse Key

Traditionally, patient populations and medical diagnoses provide a framework for the structuring of nursing curricula. A concept-based curriculum (CBC) is a departure from traditional curriculum (TC). A CBC focuses on teaching core ideas or concepts threaded throughout a curriculum to encourage critical thinking and deeper learning.

Education - Nursing and Midwifery Council

The curriculum development process systematically organizes what will be taught, who will be taught, and how it will be taught. Each component affects and interacts with other components. For example, what will be taught is affected by who is being taught (e.g., their stage of development in age, maturity, and education).
