Guide Number is a solution to deal with the Inverse Square Law.

Flash intensity falls off with distance. Guide Number (GN) is a numerical method used to determine exposure of direct flash for Manual flash power levels, to automatically deal with the Inverse Square Law, making the math be trivial.

Understanding Camera Flash Guide Numbers, plus GN Calculator

When setting photoflash exposures, the guide number (GN) of photoflash devices (flashbulbs and electronic devices known as "studio strobes", "on-camera flashes", "electronic flashes", "flashes", and "speedlights") is a measure photographers can use to calculate either the required f-stop for any given flash-to-subject distance, or the required distance for any given f-stop.

Guide number - Wikipedia

The flash guide number (GN) is a measure of the distance at which the flash can illuminate a subject. The higher the guide number, the greater the distance at which the light from the flash is sufficient for optimal exposure. The formula for calculating the guide number is as follows: Guide number (GN)=distance (meters) × aperture (f-number)

Flash Level (Guide Number) - Nikon | Imaging Products

A flash's power is determined by its Guide Number, with low Guide Numbers (GN) indicating a weak or less powerful flash than one with a high GN. For ease of comparison, most flash GNs are rated for an ISO 100 film. If you use a film with a lower ISO the GN will be lower, and, conversely, if you use a higher speed film the GN will be higher.

Flash Photography - Understanding Guide Numbers

Guide Number, usually abbreviated GN, determines power rating of flash unit that describes how powerful flash unit is and how far it can shoot. In another word, GN specifies the power of an electronic flash in a way that it can be used to determine the right f-stop to use at a particular shooting distance and ISO setting.

Sometimes the ISO value will be stated, but if it isn't just remember that all guide numbers are calculated at ISO 100. The only value ever reported as the guide number is the flash to subject distance in both feet and meters.

Flash Guide Number - The Digital SLR Guide

Your flash's Guide Number (GN) is determined at 100 ISO, when it gives correct exposure at a certain distance, multiplied by the f-stop. The idea that we can figure out the manual flash exposure by the combination of distance and aperture (for a given ISO setting), was covered in these recent topics:

Tutorial: How to use the guide number of your flash - Tangents

In short, guide numbers on a flash indicate how much light that flash can produce. You'll see them in the specs indicated in either meters or feet. The higher the guide number the further the flash will reach. The specifications will also show the flash settings at which the guide number is calculated, including the ISO and flash zoom setting.

Guide Numbers Explained for Manual Flash - Calculator ...

The simple rule is: Guide Number = distance x fstop Number (for any proper direct flash exposure). Therefore, double GN is double distance or double fstop Number (which is 2 EV stops of exposure). So comparing as f/stops works too.

Compare Power Rating of Camera Flashes with Guide Numbers

As a method of standardizing the process, manufacturers use ISO 100 and a flash-to-subject distance of 10' as fixed reference points when calibrating guide numbers. An example of this formula: a flash unit with a GN of 40 would require an aperture of f/4 at a subject-to-flash distance of 10' ($GN = 10' \times f/4 = 40$).

Understanding Guide Numbers | B&H Explora

Guide numbers are the standardized, numerical way of determining the power of a flash, with a higher guide number representing a more powerful flash. A guide number is the product of multiplying the f/stop of an exposure with a given distance, at ISO 100; or $GN = f/\text{number} \times \text{distance}$.

A Guide to On-Camera Flash | B&H Explora

The effective range- and therefore the guide number- of any flash will be affected by the use of diffusers, soft boxes, or any other type of flash modifier, as well as whether the flash head is zoomed out or not. Also, remember that guide numbers are usually calculated based on a full-frame (35mm equivalent) sensor.
