1.1 Issues in Control System Design The process of designing a control system generally involves many steps. A typical scenario is as follows: 1.

Feedback Control Theory

For the time being, consider the transfer function of positive feedback control system is, $T = \frac{G}{1 - GH}$ (Equation 1) Where, T is the transfer function or overall gain of positive feedback control system. G is the open loop gain, which is function of frequency. H is the gain of feedback path, which is function of frequency. Negative

Control Systems can be classified as open loop control systems and closed loop control systems based on the feedback path. In open loop control systems, output is not fed-back to the input. So, the control action is independent of the desired output. The following figure shows the block diagram of the open loop control system.
