Mapping Experiences: A Complete Guide to Creating Value ...

Customer experience mapping is a process for discovering how your potential customers or new users feel as they engage with your product or service’s sales funnel touchpoints. It’s the research that you will prepare and scrutinize, a journey of sorts, from the beginning to the end of your potential customer's engagement with your company.

Customer Experience Mapping: What Is It And How To Do It ...

Now that we have an overview, let's examine the six steps in creating an experience map: 1. Create a persona. The first step in creating an effective user experience map is to understand who your users are by creating a persona. This will help your organization understand who your actual customers are, what they need, and the way they interact with your business across all touchpoints.
