Amazon.com: engine start stop button

In automobiles, a start-stop system or stop-start system automatically shuts down and restarts the internal combustion engine to reduce the amount of time the engine spends idling, thereby reducing fuel consumption and emissions. This is most advantageous for vehicles which spend significant amounts of time waiting at traffic lights or frequently come to a stop in traffic jams. Start-stop technology may become more common with more stringent government fuel economy and emissions regulations. Thi

Start-stop system - Wikipedia

Newer BMWs are now equipped with Auto Start-Stop function. The main purpose of auto Start/Stop is to save fuel. Every time you stop at a red light or are stopped in traffic the engine turns off. Everything in the car including the ignition remains on. As soon as you take your foot off the brake the engine starts again automatically. It takes about 1 second for the BMW engine to restart.

A conventional starter is a powerful motor which acts on the car's flywheel - when the key is turned, the starter turns a large ring gear on the flywheel via a pinion gear. The starter turns the flywheel as the key is turned, then when the engine 'fires', and the key is released the starter disengages from the flywheel. In cars fitted with Stop-Start the technology and components are basically the same - but are designed to be a lot more robust, powerful, and fast acting.
