The works of man are not what bring visitors to Alaska. Driving into a city or town at the end of a long, empty road feels surreal because everything is, in a way, in the middle of nowhere; the fact that things have been built at all, often with heroic difficulty, makes even tiny cabins special. Alaska's real draw and glory is the works of nature, so numerous and stupendous as to make any list of "bests" a mere suggestion of where to start.
