I don't know what types are in this Roberts set (the service sheets do not say and I haven't dismantled it to look yet), but the Mullard modules were probably the most popular. I would guess that the VHF tuner module contains two AF114 and an AF115 transistor, and the IF module probably an AF115 and two AF116 transistors. Although it looks black in the photo, the vinyl trim and handle on my ...

Typical of Roberts radios this is an R600 IF amplifier circuit board carrying old Mullard germanium pnp transistors. The transistors contain a compound used in their manufacture that eventually, after many years, causes a short circuit, of varying degree, between one or more internal parts and the metal case.
