(June 2010)

Geomancer is the first book of the Well of Echoes quartet, written by Ian Irvine. It is set on the world of Santhenar, 200 years after the events of The View from the Mirror series. The old humans of Santhenar are engaged in a war against the Lyrinx, a monstrous humanoid race that emerged from The Void after the Forbidding was broken.

Geomancer: The Well of ...

The Well of Echoes. The Well of Echoes itself is a portal of pure energy, sacred to the Aachim, which they send their dead to and sometimes use as a means of execution. An Aachim who believes their life has extended beyond its natural course will also give themselves to the Well. One Well of Echoes resides at Tirthrax, held in place by powerful magic.

The Well of Echoes - Wikipedia

The Well of Echoes is my favourite Ian Irvine series. Geomancer starts very oddly in a manufactory set in a world where life is hard and full of strange and wonderful machinery. The characters are a mixed bag. Nish is clearly central and a bit of a toady in this early phase.

Do you think Geomancer: Well of Echoes, Book 1 needs a follow-up book? Why or why not? Obviously it's the first in a series, so a publisher was willing to keep betting on the author. This just reinforces my belief that others may very well find this author of interest, but I can't see

This is a well-imagined fantasy/sci-fi world at war. Tiaan has untapped geomancer powers to tap the crystals that power this world and everybody wants her for their own ends. I didn't love this book at the start but became engrossed over time, there are a lot of interesting concepts and characters to enjoy.
