CA (cyanoacrylate) glue. It can be a difficult process to build a realistic scale model ship using wood. Each wood plank placed onto the ship's hull must be carefully bent into shape, following the curves of the ship that are created by the ship's ribs. Bending wood for model ships requires preparation. Once wood has been sufficiently bent, you can glue the planks into place with confidence, knowing that each properly prepared wood plank won't add stress to the hull by trying to revert ...
