Hands-on, Mathematics-Aligned Engineering Curriculum The TeachEngineering mathematics-aligned activities featured here, by grade, support the Common Core Standards for Mathematics.

Common Core Math-Aligned Curriculum - TeachEngineering

- Include technology/engineering as a discipline equivalent to traditional sciences.
- Include only two dimensions

(disciplinary core ideas and science and engineering practices) in the standards, while encouraging the inclusion of crosscutting concepts and the nature of science in the curriculum.

Science and Technology/Engineering Learning Standards

Any person with an "Electronics Engineering" degree should have been able to figure this out and help out their kid. Seems more like someone trying to score political points. There's a lot of people who think the Common Core is just an example of big government liberal elites trying to brainwash their kids.

Moms great response to a common core question : funny

Disciplinary Core Ideas (DCIs) are the key ideas in science that have broad importance within or across multiple science or engineering disciplines. These core ideas build on each other as students progress through grade levels and are grouped into the following four domains: Physical Science, Life Science, Earth and Space Science, and Engineering.

Next Generation Science Standards

BECC is prior to EN "A" school. As the name implies, it is the "common core" studies for the engineering rates. It is mandatory, and even if you could skip it I wouldn't recommend it. Lots of good information there you will need to succeed in "A" school.
