So you can see that starting with the 3 Rules of Housetraining you can prevent most things from happening. But there is one key to doing this, you still have to pay attention to your dog! If you have a dog that is prone to chewing things, you should always have one eye on them so that you can prevent them from taking the opportunity to chew something.

What to Do if Your Dog Chews on Everything

How to Not Punish a Dog for Chewing. When your dog chews everything, it's not only exasperating. It can also be quite dangerous, especially if your pooch has a penchant for nibbling on electric cables, or tends to swallow the things they chew up. Bits and pieces from socks, shoes or wood can cause many serious problems, like blockages or perforation of the intestines.

Dog Chewing Everything? Here is How to Stop Them!

But you need to ensure that this does not get out of hand because you not only lose your belongings, but it can be potentially harmful to the cats too. Cats have the behavior of exploring everything with the mouth, and that's how they acquire the habit of chewing.
